Uncertain times lead to new behaviours.

The pandemic impacted how we work, shop, entertain, communicate and inform ourselves. New way of life during pandemic forced many of us to adopt new digital tools and services. As per the study conducted by Reed Exhibitions on evolving customer behaviour, 70% of visitors and exhibitors have tried at least one new digital service since lockdown. These findings also support Kantar's March 2020 report on new consumer behaviours in which 84% said they tried at least one new service.

Digital, an essential part of our lives.

As a result of COVID-19, exhibitions industry also evolved to suit the changing needs and preferences of the customers. Once considered a 'nice to have', digital services have become a 'must have' for many businesses determined to maintain vital business connections during the pandemic.

COVID-19 accelerated the digital growth, many people explored new digital tools and products. Digital became an essential part of our lives and as per customer behaviour survey, people will continue to use digital products in the post COVID-19 era as well.

As per the COVID-19 Customer Needs and Mindset Barometer conducted by Reed Exhibitions:
